

SEN in the classroom

All teachers are teachers of SEN and will differentiate the work in their class to suit the needs of all children. This is Quality First Teaching.

Children may be given additional support through targeted small group work to address areas of specific need. This can be seen in any classroom on a daily basis.

The teachers will adapt their planning to meet the needs of the children as they evolve.

Teachers and Teaching Assistants support learning through the careful use of resources and interventions.

Records of pupils' attainment and progress are kept, developing a picture of each pupil's strengths and weaknesses. These help the staff to plan targeted teaching strategies to maximise the progress and development of each pupil.
